

A New Hobby

Level: B1 Topic: Personal Development

James recently decided to take up photography as a new hobby. He has always been interested in capturing beautiful moments but never had the time to explore it. Last week, he bought a camera and started taking pictures in his neighborhood. He enjoys photographing landscapes, especially during sunset. James also joined an online photography class to improve his skills. The instructor gives helpful tips, and he practices every weekend. He shares his best photos with friends on social media, and they encourage him to keep going. James feels that photography helps him relax and see the world from a different perspective.
